REFRESHMENTS

THE OLD PARCELS OFFICE

KEIGHLEY

The Old Parcels Office, overlooking the tracks of Keighley Station from the bridge, is the railway's recently refurbished venue for great food and drink in the centre of Keighley.

The day starts with Breakfast from 9 a.m. It's the perfect way to fuel up before riding the trains through the Worth Valley.

Starting from lunchtime, we can keep you going with a selection of main meals, light bites, sandwiches, and burgers.

If you have worked up a thirst with all the comings and goings of steam trains, we will be happy to quench your thirst throughout the day. Along with the flavour-filled menu, our well-stocked bar offers a rotation of hand-pulled real ale, draught lagers, and cider.

TEA HUT

OAKWORTH

Sit a while and enjoy a nice cup of tea outside the historic station's Tea Hut and explore the Goods Yard or the trains passing through the station.

ENGINE SHED

INGROW WEST

The Engine Shed is more than just a museum; it's a place where the mechanical meets the magical. Our exhibition delves deep into the workings of steam locomotives, from their intricate engineering to the skilled hands that brought them to life. You'll discover the meticulous process of building a steam engine—from the initial designs on the drawing board to the hands-on craftsmanship in the workshop.

The exhibition also explores the enduring fascination with steam locomotives, a passion shared by generations of children and adults alike, whether through playing with model railways or watching the real thing in action.

AFTERNOON TEA

The tradition of Afternoon Tea dates back more than 200 years, to a time before steam-powered train travel was invented. Now that the steam age has been gone, both are celebrated at the Keighley & Worth Valley!

Afternoon tea' refers to a quintessentially British tradition established by Anna, the Duchess of Bedford, in the 19th century. When first introduced, the practice of sitting down for afternoon tea wasn't seen as a treat. It had a very practical purpose – to fill the gap between lunch and dinner.
